Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 16 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Generally dry with bright spells, mild.

Today:
A largely cloudy and dry morning for many areas with drizzle and isolated showers for the south and the east. Dry during the afternoon with clouds moving southwards and sunny spells developing. Feeling mild although breezy. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Tonight:
Clear spells and dry conditions during the evening and overnight. Low clouds will move in from the northeast in the early hours. Remaining breezy and rather mild. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Wednesday:
Dry and largely cloudy morning across the region. Clouds clear during the afternoon with bright spells to follow. Remaining dry with further clouds arriving from the east. Feeling mild. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Largely dry and cloudy on Thursday with clear spells during the evening. Cloudy with drizzle and showers possible for Friday and Saturday. Temperatures close to average.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.